Why We Give: Wendi Norris and Ryan Attenson’s Deep-Seated Passion for Giving Back

Driven by a shared generational commitment to philanthropy, Wendi Norris and Ryan Attenson make a lasting impact at Goodman Jewish Family Services of Broward County. Both fostered a profound respect for giving back in their respective families, a value deeply rooted in their Jewish heritage. The couple admires the organization’s hands-on approach to service and opportunity for personal involvement beyond mere monetary contributions.

Their shared belief in the power of making a difference, no matter how big or small, continues to shape their philanthropy and the lessons they pass on to their children and grandchildren. It’s an enriching cycle of giving and service, underlining why their commitment to Goodman JFS is not only significant, but deeply personal.
